THE LAST CALL

Small Amount Lacking for the New Industrial Enterprise.

The soliciting committee of the Business Men's association engaged in gathering subscriptions for the projected factory to occupy the old Novelty plant still lacks about three hundred dollars of having the required amount. Monday was the last day under the proposition submitted but a brief extension has been secured by telegraph and the effort will be continued.

Every citizen of Plymouth is vitally interested in the matter and should consider well before permitting any act or failure to act on his part to stand in the way of this enterprise. It is not a mere question of sentiment that is appealed to, though the feeling of public spirit should alone be sufficient in such a case as this, but it is a question of individual benefit in direct pecuniary ways. There is not a merchant in the city who would not make more than a hundred dollars the first year and every subsequent year as a direct result of the location of the proposed industry, and there is not an owner of business or residence rental property who would not immediately benefit by the increased demand for such property, while the numerous indirect advantages of such a growth of the city's business would be felt in many ways by everybody.

It is not every day that opportunities are presented for locating meritorious establishments such as every one admits the city needs, and there are plenty of places looking out for such chances and ready to snap them up eagerly. No one should feel that the concern now in view will come here anyhow, for it will not—there is no reason why it should. Neither will any but a very unwise and unobservant man say that if this establishment does not come some other will, for that is not according to experience. The success of cities as of individuals lies in grasping opportunities as they fly, not in sitting about complacently and waiting for good things to be forced on them.

If the proposal now made is not in every minor detail just such as a very particular person may wish it to be, that is no reason for casting it aside. The gentlemen of the Business Men's association have deliberately given the plan their official approval and that should satisfy everybody, for these men have gathered the facts and considered them well and they know what they are doing. No plan could be devised that would not incur the criticism of some individual, and so each must yield a little something for the benefit of the whole.

By common consent it is agreed that Plymouth needs more factories. They add to the general wealth, support the merchants, fill the houses, give work to the unemployed and make towns worth living in and investing in. Every resident of the city, and indeed every farmer within the trading radius, should do everything within his power to aid in securing enterprises to locate here, not only by his encouraging talk but by substantial donation. Such gifts are not chargeable to charity or expense, but to investment, and they return a hundred-fold.

Last Hundred.

The factory committee has raised all of the subscription for the purchase of the Novelty plant except about one hundred dollars and they feel that the end of their labors in that behalf is in sight. It would be an everlasting disgrace to the city if the effort should be permitted to fail when the goal is so close and no one can believe that failure will be suffered to occur.

A few have declined to subscribe, or have put down amounts that are inadequate as compared with others, and this has had a tendency to discourage some who would otherwise be as enthusiastic as any. It takes all kinds of people to make the world and naturally enough some are niggardly in every community; but they may safely be left to their own consciences and to their common reputation among their fellowmen for punishment. For other people to punish themselves and the whole community by standing back because their short-sighted neighbors do is like cutting off one's nose to spite his face.

Next week we hope to announce that the full sum is raised. Such news would be followed by an immediate request for a list of rentable residences to be sent to the factory people, who would establish eight families here without delay.

Sam Parker at the Capital.

Samuel Parker of Plymouth, one of the best-known democrats of the Thirtieth district, was registered at the Grand yesterday. The people of that section of the state are paying little attention to politics just now, he says. It is expected that ex-Senator Drummond, who was the democratic candidate for attorney-general last year, will be a candidate for re-nomination. Senator W. E. Stillwell of Princeton is also spoken of in connection with this nomination.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

DEATHS OF A DAY.

Richard Williamson.

The death of Richard Williamson occurred at his home at the corner of Center and Garro streets in this city Saturday evening, of old age. He has long been lingering on the border of death and his demise was not unexpected.

Mr. Williamson was born in Ireland, in County Cork, October 28, 1815, and was therefore 86 years old. He came to America in 1840 and engaged in mercantile pursuits, which he followed until his retirement some years ago because of his advanced age. He came from Evansville to Plymouth in 1859 and was for many years a leading merchant, his last venture being in the Model store in company with M. Ryan, the present proprietor. His wife and only child, Mrs. Charles DeMay, survive him.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church, Father Yenn officiating, and the interment took place at the Catholic cemetery.

Henson McDuffie.

Henson McDuffie died at his residence in this city Sunday morning after a long illness and was buried at Fairmount cemetery. The funeral was held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the house on North Walnut Street.

Mr. McDuffie was born in Harrison county, Kentucky, April 2, 1823. He came to this county many years ago and has spent most of his life on a farm. The late David McDuffie, a prominent lawyer in Plymouth, was his son. He leaves five children, William, John, Jacob and Thomas McDuffie and Mrs. M. J. Fetters. His wife preceded him to the grave and as old age crept upon him he removed to Plymouth to spend his declining years. Mr. McDuffie was greatly esteemed and respected in the circles in which he moved.

Death of Mrs. Margaret Speyer.

The death of Margaret Speyer, widow of Capt. Henry Speyer, occurred at her home in Culver Tuesday afternoon at the age of 72 years. She will be buried at Oak Hill cemetery today, the funeral party arriving on the noon train.

Mrs. Speyer, whose maiden name was Pickens, was born in Ireland. She married her late husband at Newark, N. J., and they afterwards removed to Kentucky and in 1879 came to this county, where Mr. Speyer engaged in merchandising at Culver, then Marmont, in association with the Plymouth firm of Nussbaum and Mayer. Since Capt. Speyer's death about fifteen years ago she has made her home with her children in Culver and New York.

Mrs. Speyer was a member of the Episcopal church. Of her seven children five survive, namely: Jacob, a merchant of New York City; Sarah, wife of Henry Maxwell, of Yonkers, N. Y.; Eva, wife of Wm. Porter of Culver; Marian, widow of Andrew Korp, of Culver, and Henry M., postmaster at Culver, who succeeded to the business of his father and is now conducting a large establishment.

Mrs. Speyer was a kind, Christian woman, who was sincerely loved and respected by a large circle of acquaintances. Her patience and fortitude in time of trouble are recalled no less than her sunny and affectionate disposition, her charitable inclination and her strong common sense.

Pythian Entertainment.

The local lodge of Knights of Pythias has arranged for an entertainment to be given at the opera house two nights, Nov. 25 and 26, for the benefit of the Castle Hall fund, the Mary Gilbert Concert Co., being the attraction. Miss Gilbert is a reader and violinist of note whose ability is attested by a multitude of complimentary press notices, and she is assisted by Miss Maude Brookmeyer, a pianist and violinist of superior attainments. The program covers a wide range of selections and two delightful evenings are in store for those who attend. The purpose for which the proceeds will be used should appeal to all who appreciate the spirit which led the order of Pythians to beautify the city by the erection of their handsome castle hall.

Notice of Withdrawal.

To my friends of Culver precinct and throughout the township and county, all of whom will ever have a warm and welcome place in my heart for their general kind recognition in my behalf as an applicant for post office at Culver—I have this day voluntarily of my own accord and good will notified Hon. A. L. Brick that I desire to withdraw my name as an applicant for Culver post office. This I do without malice or prejudice against Mr. Brick or any other applicant but for the love of party and harmony I deny self and submit the matter wholly and freely to Mr. Brick, hoping whoever he may appoint will meet the approval of the patrons of the office and promote the best interest of the party.

Sincerely your friend,
THOMAS MEDBOURN.

WRONGHURST ROASTS.

A hog and hominy supper will be held at our church next Wednesday night to raise money for cleaning the chimney.

John Sprathers and Andy Huston had a political argument at the blacksmith shop Tuesday and made it so warm they didn't know when the fire went out in the forge.

Over at the Cope school they had a voting contest to see who was the laziest man in the neighborhood. Tim Eaton deserved the cake, and he got it.

Muskies are building with thin walls; cornhusks are thin and the goosebone indicates a mild winter. Take notice and govern yourselves accordingly.

Odus Bryan will butcher a hog tomorrow. Let's visit him.

Widow Hughes has a good farm and a bad cough and is growing very popular with a certain widower who is too lazy to work.

George Cowper calls his cheese shed the lighthouse, because a lighthouse is a warning to skippers.

Gil Gulick's well went dry last week, his Belgian hares quit laying eggs, and he has his left ear done up in splints as the result of being dragged through a fence by his brindle calf. We sympathize with Gil in his bad luck and will send him our rabbit's foot.

Little Lige Billingsley swallowed the clock key and three safety pins yesterday and the doctor told his folks to muzzle him until his appetite changes.

Miss Pod Hitchcock celebrated her forty-seventh birthday Monday. She doesn't look a day over forty-six.

This place has not grown much in the last week but Uncle Swartwout is pulling out old nails to put a new door on his henhouse.

Bill Yeager's old stump-sucking mare chewed up a pair of long stockings and something else Bill's wife had out on the line and Bill feels real bad about it.

Eph Hiler's oldest daughter has a regular Sunday visitor from Plymouth. The young dude has all the children laughing at him because he tries to eat pie with a fork. They are going to have soup next Sunday to see if he eats that with a fork too. If his collar should break loose and fly up it would certainly cut his ears off.

WRONGHURST, NOV. 16.

K. of P. District Meeting.

The regular district meeting of Knights of Pythias for this district will be held at Walkerton Dec. 17 and the lodge at that thriving little town is making great preparations for the event. Thompson Turner, district deputy grand chancellor, is giving the matter close personal attention. Hyperion lodge of this city instituted the Walkerton lodge ten or a dozen years ago and the old timers have a pleasant recollection of the hospitable entertainment they received at that time. It is probable that Hyperion lodge will be invited to exemplify the work of the third degree in amplified form at the district meeting.

A New Year Wedding.

On New Year day at 3 o'clock in the afternoon will be performed the marriage ceremony uniting Earl Corbaley and Edna Yockey in the bonds of matrimony. The event will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Yockey, in the presence of relatives of the two families and a few intimate friends. The bride-elect is one of Plymouth's fairest daughters, accomplished, beautiful and popular, and the groom was raised and educated in this city but is now making successful progress in business in Indianapolis, where his parents have recently taken up their residence.

An Indiana Institution.

John W. Parks has been appointed local agent for "The Union Surety Company" of Indianapolis, a company with a capital stock of $250,000. This company will act as surety on bonds required by societies, United States government, state, county and city, corporations, individuals, contractors, co-partnerships, banks, administrators, guardians, courts, trustees and receivers.

This company will relieve persons or corporations from asking their friends to become sureties.

Rates are such as are consistent with safety, and the character of the risk offered.

Tariff Tinkering.

Tariff tinkering, so vigorously suggested just now by all the free trade organs of the land, is an invitation to congress to disturb the present prosperous condition of the country. More or less disturbance always follows, and the country wants no disturbing influences at work at this time. The claim that the tariff is a breeder of trusts is a democratic myth. Only the other day we had news that in free trade Great Britain the organization of a great steel and iron combine is about to be perfected.—Valparaiso Journal.
